

“Uju” Ekeocha

is coming to Pueblo, CO as the Keynote speaker for the October 16th Universal Chastity Education Annual Fundraiser*

Obianuju “Uju” Ekeocha is an internationally acclaimed strategist, speaker, author, social activist and documentary filmmaker. She was born and raised in southeastern Nigeria. She first became widely known in 2012 upon writing an “open letter” that immediately went viral on the Internet. In it she said, “Listen to a heart-felt cry of an African woman and mercifully channel your funds to pay for what we really need.” That list included “chastity programs”. Soon after she founded Culture of Life Africa, dedicated to promotion of such in Africa and beyond. The current list of her credentials also includes:

- Author of Target Africa: Ideological Neocolonialism of the Twenty-First Century (Ignatius Press © 2018, translated and republished in Spain and Saudi Arabia)
- Executive Producer of an award-winning documentary, Strings Attached
- Advisor of many African, European and North American legislators and political influencers on issues concerning African women’s health, youth, families, healthcare, foreign aid, education, and culture.
- Worked closely with religious leaders across the African continent and has co-authored a number of pro-life declarations with different African Catholic episcopal conferences
- Planned, organized and facilitated many major pro-life conferences, strategic seminars and March for Life rallies in various African countries
- Spoken in 65 cities across 24 countries, and has been welcomed as a guest speaker at many high-profile meetings and events including policy briefings at the White House, the US State Department and Parliaments around the world including the European Parliament
- Addressed her concerns at various United Nations conferences and events.
- Featured by numerous broadcast networks, including BBC and Al Jazeera where she has defended the sanctity and dignity of every human life.

Consistent with her love for the wonder of life, “Uju” works as a Specialist Biomedical Scientist in the United Kingdom. Prior to her current position, she was a Medical Laboratory Scientist at the University of Nigeria Teaching Hospital. She holds a Master’s degree in Biomedical Science from the University of East London and a Bachelor’s degree in Microbiology from the University of Nigeria and she’s currently training to become a pathology IT specialist.
